DECLARATION

This is to declare that the invention of Helmut Borberg, MD Professor of Medicine et al. referring to the extracorporeal rheological therapy of diabetic feet as applied in the patent application no. 10/649,968 was at the time of application and still is of original unique nature, heavily cited and continuously internationally expanding not only in Germany but also in Austria, Canada, France, Italy, Japan, United States of America, Russia and others. Clinically it is well suited to cure patients without treatment alternative. The therapeutic approach is unique in a way that it is based on haemorheological investigations not taken into consideration from other investigators.
